PIG PARK
by Claudia Guadalupe Martinez

Masi and her family live in a neighborhood called Pig Park in Chicago. After a major factory closes down in the area, many families in Masi’s neighborhood struggle to make ends meet, or they leave for better opportunities. Hoping to promote tourism and visitors to the neighborhood, the residents work together to build La Gran Pirámide at the recommendation of Dr. Vidalas Casal, a community development specialist. When the pyramid burns down, Masi, her family, and friends are concerned they will lose everything, but are surprised when a newspaper article about the neighborhood saves Pig Park.
